The Sea Boy's Farewell To His Friends.

Wait ye winds while I repeat,
A parting signal to the fleet,
Whose station is at home:
Then waft the sea-boy's simple prayer,
And let it oft be whispered there,
While other climes I roam.

Farewell to Father, reverend hulk,
Who, spite of timber, spite of bulk,
Must soon his cable slip.
But, while the parting tear is moist,
The flag of gratitude I'll hoist,
In duty to the ship.

Farewell to Mother, first rate she,
Who launched me on life's stormy sea,
And rigged me fore and aft:
May Providence her timbers spare,
And keep her hull in good repair,
To tow the smaller craft.

Farewell to Sister, lovely yacht,
But whether she'll be manned or not,
I cannot now foresee;
May some good ship a tender prove,
Well found in stores of truth and love,
And take her under lee.

Farewell to George, the jolly boat,
And all the little craft afloat,
In home's delightful bay;
When they arrive at sailing age,
May wisdom give the weather guage,
And guide them on their way.

Farewell to all! on life's rude main,
Perchance we ne'er shall meet again,
Thro' stress of stormy weather:
But, summoned by the board above,
We'll anchor in the port of love,
And all be moored together.

Miss McLush rarely walks. When she does, it is with the deliberate majesty of a Dido.—Her small, plump feet melt to the ground like snow-flakes, and her figure sways to the indolent motion of her limbs with a glorious grace and yieldingness quite indescribable. She was idling slowly up the Mall one evening just at twilight, with a servant at a short distance behind her, who, to while away the time between his steps, was employing himself in throwing stones at the cows feeding upon the Common. A gentleman, with a natural admiration for her splendid person, addressed her. He might have done a more eccentric thing. Without troubling herself to look at him, she turned to her servant and requested him, with a yawn of desperate ennui, to knock that fellow down! John obeyed his orders; and, as his mistress resumed her lounge, picked up a new handful of pebbles, and tossing one at the cow, loitered lazily after.

Such supreme indolence was irresistible. I gave in—I—who could never before summon energy to sigh—I—to whom a declaration was but a synonym for perspiration—I—who had ever thought of love as a nervous complaint, and of women to pray for a good deliverance—I—yes—I—knocked under. Albina McLush! Thou wert too exquisitely lazy. Human sensibilities cannot hold out forever!

I found her one morning sipping her coffee at twelve, with her eyes wide open. She was just from the bath, and her complexion had a soft, dewy transparency, like the cheek of Venus rising from the sea. It was the hour, Lurly had told me, when she would be at the trouble of thinking. She put away, with her dimpled forefinger, as I entered, a cluster of rich curls that had fallen over her face, and nodded to me like a water-lily swaying to the wind when its cup is full of rain.

"Lady Albina," said I, in my softest tone, "how are you?"

"Bettina," said she, addressing her maid, in a voice as clouded and rich as a south wind on an Æolian, "how am I to-day?"

The conversation fell into short sentences.—The dialogue became a monologue. I entered upon my declaration. With the assistance of Bettina, who supplied her mistress with cologne, I kept her attention alive through the incipient circumstances. Sympathies were soon told. I came to the avowal. Her hand lay reposing on the arm of the sofa, half buried in a muslin foulard. I took it up and pressed the cool soft fingers to my lips—unforbidden. I rose and looked into her eyes for confirmation. Delicious creature! she was asleep!

I never have had courage to renew the subject. Miss McLush seems to have forgotten it altogether. Upon reflection, too, I'm convinced she would not survive the excitement of the ceremony—unless, indeed, she should sleep between the responses and the prayer. I am still devoted, however, and if there should come a war or an earthquake, or if the millennium should commence, or if anything happens that can keep her waking so long, I shall deliver a declaration, abbreviated for me by a scholar-friend of mine, which, he warrants, may be articulated in fifteen minutes—without fatigue.

An Irish laborer, who was in the employment of an English gentleman, residing in Ireland, was on one occasion about going to a fair, held annually at a neighboring village, when his master endeavored to dissuade him from his design. "You always come home with a broken head; now stay at home to-day, Darby, and I'll give you five shillings." "I'm forever and all obliged to your honor," replied Darby, "but does it stand to reason," added he, flourishing his shillelah over his head, "does it stand to reason, that I'd take five shillings for the great batin' I'm to get to-day?"

A "Down East" writer, expatiating on the fertilizing properties of guano, gives a veracious account of Kansas soil in the following: A few hours after planting cucumber seeds the dirt began to fly, and the vines came up like a streak, and although he started off at the top of his speed, vines overtook and covered him; and, on taking out his knife to cut the thing, he found a large cucumber gone to seed in his pocket.

"God's hand in our National conflict," was the closing subject of the sermon of the chaplain of the House of Representatives. Abolition hands in Uncle Sam's pockets would have been more appropriate.

An Englishman is said recently to have invented a scarecrow so effective that one crow who saw it, brought back all the corn he had stolen for three years.

VOL. I. RALEIGH, TUESDAY EVENING, JULY 31, 1866. NO. 301.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
CASWELL COUNTY.

IN THE COURT OF EQUITY, SPRING TERM, A. D., 1866.

The Bank of Yanceyville vs.
The Creditors of said Bank.

This bill is filed under an act of Assembly, ratified on the 12th. of March A. D. 1866, entitled "an act to enable the Banks of this State to close their business," and it is ordered by the Court that publication, for six weeks, be made in the papers herein specified, notifying the creditors of the said Bank, to present and establish their claims against said Bank before Joseph J. Lawson, Commissioner appointed by this Court, at Yanceyville, North Carolina, on or before the first day of January. A. D., 1868.

The following are the papers designated by the Court in which publication shall be made, namely: The National Intelligencer, Washington City; The Daily Sentinel, Raleigh, N. VALUABLE REAL ESTATE, LOCATED IN AND ADJOINING THE TOWN OF WARRENTON, N. C.

FOR SALE.

The Warrenton Female College is now offered for sale, on reasonable terms. This College has been in successful operation, for over twelve years, and, during that time, it has earned a reputation as an Institution of learning, second to none in N. C.

The location is such as to warrant a full attendance of pupils, being very accessible from any point, especially the Eastern portions of N. C, and Va.

The Committee, who have been empowered to make sale of this property, deem it unnecessary to say more of this Institution as its character for a high grade of scholarship, and the elevated standard of morals inculcated, under the eye and supervision of its late President, E. E. Parham, is already well known.

The society in which this College is located is known to be equal to any in the South.

There is now a sufficiency of Buildings and other Conveniences attached to this Real Estate, to conduct a large and flourishing school. The premises consist in about SIXTY ACRES of Land a material portion of which is within the Corporation. This, with all or a part of the furniture, &c., belonging to the same, can be purchased with the land and buildings. This property will be offered privately for sale until Wednesday the 3rd day October next, and, if not then sold, will be on that day sold, at public auction, to the highest bidder.

The Committee are fully authorized to sell, and would say that a rare chance is offered to any party wishing to purchase such property, as time sufficient, if required, will be given. Possession given immediately.

Any person or party wishing to examine the property will be shown it by E. E. Parham, the present occupant, or by any one or more of the Committee.

PROCLAMATION

TO THE PEOPLE OF NORTH CAROLINA.

In obedience to an Ordinance of the State Convention, ratified the 25th. day of June, 1866, entitled "An Ordinance submitting to the qualified voters of the State the ratification or rejection of the Constitution adopted by the Convention," I, JONATHAN WORTH, Governor of North Carolina, hereby give notice that on THURSDAY, the SECOND day of AUGUST next, polls will be opened by the Sheriffs of the respective Counties, and kept open for three successive days, at the several election precincts in each and every County in the State, under the same rules and regulations as now exist for the election of members of the General Assembly; at which election all persons qualified to vote for members of the General Assembly, may vote for or against the ratification of the same; those who wish a ratification of the Constitution voting, with a written or printed ticket, "RATIFICATION,"—those, of a contrary opinion, voting, with a written or printed ticket, "REJECTION." Sheriffs will observe the provisions of the Ordinance as to the duties thereby imposed.

L. S. In witness whereof His Excellency, JONATHAN WORTH, Governor of said State, has hereto set his hand and caused the great seal of the State to be affixed.

Done at the City of Raleigh, this the 2nd. day of July, A. D. 1866.

JONATHAN WORTH.

OF RANDOLPH.

Remember that the election for the ratification of the amended Constitution of North Carolina, will be held on the 2d., 3rd. and 4th of August next, throughout the State.

The Election,---Amended Constitution

The election for the ratification of the amended Constitution opens on Thursday next. Col. Allen, of Duplin, in an excellent letter to the Wilmington Journal, suggests that, in the diversity of opinion which exists in regard to the validity of the amended Constitution, the people would do well to vote for it or reject it on its own merits.

The suggestion is a good one. Acting upon that idea, he will vote against it. Pursuing a similar line of conduct, we should vote for it.

The amended Constitution, resting upon its own merits, will be found to contain far more that is good and praise-worthy, than what is evil or objectionable. Besides, it will be found that the practical benefits to the State, of those portions which are good, will far outweigh the evil of those that are bad. Moreover, it strikes us that the objectionable features of the instrument are more of an abstract and theoretic nature, and therefore may be more easily corrected in future, if need be. Indeed, some of the clauses objected to are, in our estimation, positively beneficial. Let us briefly recapitulate some of its obnoxious and a few of its more excellent characteristics:

1. The amendment of the bill of rights, authorizing the Legislature to provide for the decrease of jury trials, by no means attacks that great right of American citizens. In every case where a man claims to be tried by a jury, the Legislature cannot prevent appeal. It simply gives to the Legislature discretion to provide for a speedy trial of petty offenders, by which much expense may be avoided, and the innocent or guilty speedily released from arrest.

2. The basis of representation, fixed by the amended Constitution, is objected to. Under a different phase of national politics, the argument against the non-representation of negroes would be impregnable. But we must take things as we find them and as they may be. In a sharp, close contest for negro suffrage, the counting the blacks in the basis of representation would be hard to manage. Moreover, the tendencies of the age are evidently towards pure democracy—the will of the majority inclines to leaping all barriers, removing all restraints. In a future contest with the West, what assurance has the East, that this democratic tendency, a total disregard of the rights and wrongs of the minority, will not prevail? As it is, in the amended Constitution, conservatism holds in check this spirit, and yet all interests are met by a safe compromise.

3. The clause requiring all bills, proposing to raise money on the faith and credit of the State or to lay taxes, to be voted for in both Houses, three several times, under a call of the yeas and nays, is said to be strongly objected to in the West. We are surprised at this. It is a feature that ought to have been inserted at least ten years ago. We are sure such a clause cannot be made to operate against Western improvement, unless all improvements be held awhile in abeyance, until the people are able to undertake them.

4. The selection of Justices of the Peace every six years, by the people, by districts, is also strongly objected to. The reduction of the number of magistrates, and the infrequency of the election, we think, obviate the objection in a great measure. The practice, we are sure, under this change, will remove the objection entirely. The appointment of large numbers for political considerations, by the Legislature, made it a source of corruption, and it had become a nuisance. The people cannot do worse. Their own interests demand good and competent men for that office, and they will not go counter to their interests,—at least, long at a time.

5. The change, excluding all but natives from the higher offices of State, was unnecessary and not justified by the history of the past.

6. The oath of office required meets with opposition. We cannot see the force of the objection, except that the objectionable clause is better fitted to the Revised Code, than to the Constitution. One thing must be admitted: That whatever may be in a State Constitution, which is inconsistent with the Constitution of the United States, must be null or invalid so long as that Constitution is the "supreme law of the land," and as all State officers are required to make oath to support, observe and defend the Constitution of the United States, the insertion of the objectionable clause in the State Constitution was supererogatory and unnecessary. We can see no special benefit or injury accruing from it. Suppose the Constitution of the United States to be hereafter altered by competent and constitutional authority, and suppose the change to be offensive to every man in the State, still it must be conceded, that the State Constitution must be made conformable thereto, or the State must make good her refusal by revolution or by a legitimate resort to secure its amendment. Hence the absolute necessity of the people of the State, resorting to all legal measures to prevent, in advance, the amendment of that instrument by offensive clauses.

6. The oath required of all officers, that they believe themselves constitutionally qualified to enjoy the office, is, at least, prudent and cautious.

7. The clause forbidding members of the Legislature from becoming candidates for another office, during the term for which they were elected, we think an excellent provision. So, also, the clause which allows all citizens, Jew or Gentile, to hold office,—excluding no man whose religious views are not hostile to the peace and safety of the State. Also, the change creating the office of Lieutenant Governor is not objectionable.

8. The crowning virtue of the amended Constitution is the judicial department, fixing the existence of our Court or judicial system by the Constitution. The manifest legislation in this article mars its excellency—a proclivity, by the way, which the Convention seemed to possess in a large degree.

THERE CAN SCARCELY be a doubt that were the States and people of the South encouraged in the effort by a wise, liberal and magnanimous Federal legislation, they would speedily repair the terrible devastation and losses which the civil war brought upon them. There is an universal disposition and anxiety, throughout our afflicted section, to lay anew, on solid and sure foundations, the basis of our material prosperity,—to recuperate our fallen fortunes,—to forbear useless repinings over the past, and to go forth, with manly determination, to encounter the future. Indeed, the exigencies imposed upon our people by their impoverished condition seem to have effected a radical change in their habits and pursuits,—a change that is submitted to, almost universally, with a philosophy, or, rather, we should say, with a patient and uncomplaining resignation, that augurs happily for the future, if they can be left to its unfettered development, and which should excite admiration in quarters where, we regret to say, it only provokes ungenerous taunts and jibes. Men of hitherto large fortune, who have never heretofore experienced the necessity of labor, are bending themselves to the drudgery of life with cheerfulness and energy. All classes of society,—men of literature, professional men, farmers, merchants, tradesmen,—are either engaged in employments uncongenial to their former profession or business, or discharging all the menial duties and minutiæ that attach to their respective callings, and which others have in times past performed for them. Hands that not many months ago waved the gleaming sword on the fiery crest of battle now guide the plow or till the soil. Men who not long since filled the high places in our Southern land, and adorned the forum, or the cabinet, or the legislative halls, are now earning with their hands or heads, by varied and novel modes of labor, the scanty means to support themselves and families. Delicate, refined and accomplished women, whom the winds of heaven were never before permitted to visit too roughly, perform without murmuring the most servile toil, and sacrifice still, as they did most nobly during the war, all considerations of self upon the altar of duty.

It is a virtuous and sublime spectacle to see a people thus engaged and thus animated. It is a moral spectacle but rarely presented in history,—of a people springing up from prostration and ruin, and at once essaying, with hopeful defiance and courage, to conquer calamity and rebuild their shattered fortunes. Such energy savors of the re-active power of Antœus, the fabled son of Earth, who rose with renewed vigor after each blow that felled him to the bosom of his mother. It is the recorded experience of all other nations, that have passed through a similar terrible ordeal to that through which the South has gone, that they have succumbed to the pressure of disaster and lost faith and spirit as well. Nothing but the recuperative force of the Anglo-Saxon character could hope to heal such vital wounds as have gashed the body of our suffering land.

What a contrast is presented in the successful North to the condition of things in our midst! Extravagance and fashion run riot,—prodigality and recklessness in excess—public and private prodigacy, to a degree heretofore unknown in the history of nations,—speculation and peculation rampant;—all these features mark and pervade its social and political organization. In the midst of so much selfishness and heartlessness, it is perhaps not surprising that there should be no place for generous sympathy at the affecting sight of the woes and sorrows of others. But there is a dignity and a sacredness even in suffering that are worth more, even in the present possession, and certainly in their moral results and teachings, than all the surroundings of frivolity, sensuality and dissipation. The eye of Omnipotence and Mercy looks down far more tenderly upon the houses of affliction and misfortune, where humble submission bows to the rod, while a heaven-inspired strength seeks its removal, than upon scenes of such criminal dissipation as the following, described in the correspondence of a New York journal as "all the rage" at Saratoga:

"In the cool of the afternoon, when dinner is over, and before the gayeties of the evening commence, is the favorite time for driving; and the display of splendid private vehicles, superb horses, and elegant toilettes upon these occasions, was never before equalled even in this brilliant centre of fashion and folly.

The difference in the number of these equipages between this and former years surprises even the initiated. The cost of keeping up such establishments in this place is something fearful, or would have been considered so before paper effected a revolution in our ideas of cost, and rendered money of little more value than water.

Wherever it comes from, there is perfect recklessness in the use of it; parties who do not own horses and carriages, hire them continually, paying ten dollars for three-quarters of a mile drive to the races, and twenty-five to the lake. Ladies coolly trail a thousand dollars' worth of lace over the carriage wheels, and gentlemen bet a thousand dollars on the trick or motion of a horse, and hand it over as they would a cigar.

Ladies are beginning, now, to be great judges on all points regarding horse-flesh. Some of them can even drive a four-in-hand, and all of them talk learnedly and bet gloves, generally "six to six and three-quarters," on the points and perfections of their favorite animals."

Hon. Robt. B. Gilliam.

We are authorized to state that it will be impossible for this gentleman, recently selected as one of the delegates from this Congressional District to the Philadelphia Convention, to attend that body, as his Fall Circuit commences in Harnett County on the 2nd Monday in August. This is what we expected at the time, from what we know of Judge Gilliam's indisposition to engage in public labors outside of his official duties, and hence we regretted the failure of the Convention to appoint alternates. We know of no method by which another delegate can be chosen in lieu of Judge Gilliam, unless by the re-assembling of the Convention. We should be pleased to have some suggestion upon the subject. Could not the Convention re-convene on the 10th of August the day fixed for the selection of delegates for the State at large?

For the Sentinel.

The New Constitution.

MESSRS EDITORS:—A writer in the Sentinel, of the 25th. inst., gives forcible expression to the very common opinion that the late Convention had no powers other than those conferred on it by the President of the United States.—He limits those powers to three things: The repudiation of the State war debt; the abolition of slavery and the renunciation of secession. Beyond these, he insists that its acts, whether of ordinary legislation or in regard to the fundamental law, are void and cannot be validated by any ratification of the people.

The style of this vigorous writer is rather discursive than argumentative, arising, no doubt, from the epistolary form in which his thoughts are moulded. And it will be admitted, too, I think, that there is a vein of passion running through all that he has said. It is more like a concio ad populum, than a calm dicussion of a question, which draws deep down in our most vital interests. We cannot have things as we would like them. We must look straight at the situation, in the view of public law, without a tear or an emotion in our eye.

There is a grand fact in the situation, which admits of no denial, and is conclusive of the whole question: In May, 1861, North Carolina, in league with certain other States, made war against the United States; and in May, 1865, North Carolina and her allies surrendered unconditionally to the force of arms. Here is a clear case of conquest, and the rights of conquest plainly attach. That there are rights of conquest, none will deny. What are they?

Our attempt to withdraw from the Union and establish a separate nationality may be regarded from two points of view: One deems it an ordinary case of rebellion. This is almost universally the view at the North, and is far too common among ourselves. If it be the correct one, the argument may as well stop. You will search the writers on public law in vain, for any distinctive limitations upon the will of the conqueror over subdued rebels. They talk, indeed, a good deal of his being bound by the claims of justice and humanity in dealing with this unfortunate class of his people, and particularly urge the duty of clemency towards the mass of offenders. But beyond these vain and empty generalities, in behalf of rebels, they do not go; while, on the other hand, the rights of the offended ruler are set forth with potent and terrible significance. He may hang—he may confiscate—he may withhold liberties—he may overthrow institutions. Not a single writer but insists, that he may utterly demolish that form of government under which the armed rebels waged war upon him, and constitute a new one, at will, in its stead. If we were rebels merely, so far from complaining justly of the right of the President to abolish our State government and institute another over us by a Convention or in any other mode he deemed best, I assert confidently, that that right is based upon the clearest principles of public law. Nor, indeed, has the President done a tithe of what that law would have justified.

But our case is not fairly that of an ordinary rebellion. It is immensely more favorable. Vattel shall state it for us: B. 3. C. 18.

"Civil war breaks the bands of society and government, or, at least, it suspends their force and effect. It produces in the nation two independent parties, who consider each other as enemies, and acknowledge no common judge. Those two parties, therefore, must necessarily be considered as thence forward constituting, at least for a time, two separate bodies, two distinct societies. Though one of the parties may have been to blame in breaking the unity of the State and resisting the lawful authority, they are not the less divided in fact. They stand, therefore, in precisely the same predicament as two nations, who have recourse to arms." This is our case—a case of civil war, where both parties were acknowleged as belligerents, not only by foreign nations, but as between themselves.

The Executive and Judicial authorities of the U. S. repeatedly recognized us as belligerents; and Vattel argues that, in such a case, the common laws of war—the maxims of humanity, moderation and honor, should not only be observed by both parties during the progress of the struggle, but that they also should guide and restrain the conduct of the conqueror, when the struggle is over.

Now this is putting the case as favorably for us as truth will allow; and we have simply to consider what are the rights of conquest as between two independent nations. There are many distinctly enumerated in the books. The detail were tedious. One is enough for our present purpose. Vattel, and all the writers, with one accord lay it down repeatedly that the conqueror acquires over a subjugated country all the rights—no more—no less—that belonged to the sovereign against whom we had taken up arms. In the exercise of these rights he must conform, as near as circumstances will allow, to the limitations and modifications of power as defined in the laws of the conquered State. This is decisive of our question, as plain facts will show. As the people of North Carolina, against whom the United States had waged a successful war, could call a Convention and abolish or amend the organic law at pleasure, so the President, as the representative of the United States, evidently could of right do the same thing. Our loss was his gain.

I trace up his right to call a Convention, you will perceive, to that of a conqueror—a violent but still as lawful a source of title as that by purchase. If it do not flow from this fountain, I am ready to admit it is no right at all. I am unable to comprehend any other source which will render it legitimate. We only bewilder ourselves when we attempt to reason on this subject from written constitutions, whether that of the United States or of North Carolina.

In one regard, indeed, I allow that the President has not conformed to the public law which is given for the guidance of rulers in like cases. His right, as derived from conquest, to have a Convention called in North Carolina, is incontestible, as I have shown. But he did not pursue as closely as he might have done the forms of our organic law, which he was bound to do, as all the writers are agreed. He might have assembled the existing Legislature and required it to convoke a Convention according to the terms of the Constitution. That it would have done so promptly, does not admit of a doubt. And I marvel greatly that a procedure so consonant to order and legitimacy was not adopted. If it be said this would have been a recognition of the rebel State government, I reply that the President has had to recognize that government and its laws any how and in many instances.

I do not, however, urge that this slight departure on the part of the President vitiates his act in calling a Convention. He conformed, no doubt, as he thought, as near as he could under the circumstances, to the fundamental laws then in force amongst us.

The writer in the Sentinel denies the validity of all ordinances of the Convention, except those touching the three points already referred to. Why this exception? Does he not see that any exception is fatal to his position? Admit this right of the President to call a Convention for three specific objects; by what process of reasoning is it that you put a limitation upon that right at a particular point? He had no more authority, manifestly, to convoke a limited than an unlimited Convention. If his power as military chief extends to one, please name an author or a precedent that denies it to the other, or which marks the line of separation? If the people of North Carolina had the right to call an unlimited Convention, why had not the President? Let any man show that the principle of remission or substitution, already referred to, does not extend in its amplitude to our case. And, in point of fact, we know the President did call an unlimited Convention. Declaring that the civil government in North Carolina was at an end, (by which he meant not that every law was abrogated, but that every arm of the civil authority which had waged war against the United States,—the executive, judicial and legislative departments,—had been cut off,) he proceeds simply to call a Convention without restriction. Now, says this writer, he could do so for the purpose of abolishing slavery, which destroyed incalculable values, and effected alarming changes in our industrial system, but he dare not touch the basis of representation, or alter the tenure of office in North Carolina. The doctrine may be sound, but we would like to see a clearer demonstration than has yet been offered.

As to ratification by the people, the writer's argument is exhaustive that it will do no good. It will add no force or effect to the new constitution. If a Convention be called by competent authority, which in our case we insist is as lawful as though called by the people themselves, being founded in the indisputable right of conquest, we have never deemed that its acts derived any validity from the sanction of the people. It was a silly thing, and nothing but a sheer complication of affairs, for the Convention to submit the instrument to popular suffrage.

The discussion of this question is searching. It goes to the very bottom of the causes which led to the war, and of the results which must inevitably follow its unhappy catastrophe. The war was itself radical. The issue involved was nothing less than the existence of the States.—Our people did not so understand it—for the plain reason, that the masses rarely comprehended any movement in its principles—but only in its results. We see now every day that the results of the conflict are rendering obvious to the popular apprehension its underlying elements. And yet our ignorance was wilful.—At least a generation before the actual collision of arms, we were forewarned what the end would be, if we failed. Nothing less than the utter extinction of these States! The veil of sovereignty, which is to a State what modesty is to a woman, is rent in twain from top to bottom. The decision has been made in the most imposing form known to men. It cannot be reversed, except by another and a more successful appeal to arms, or by a Convention of the States, which shall authoritatively declare their relation to the Central government. V.

The Radical calumniators of human nature are letting themselves down gradually. Secretary Stanton was the person who originally charged Jefferson Davis with complicity in the assassination of President Lincoln. He was shrewd enough to avoid the trouble of suborning evidence to make out a case, and to rid himself of its odium, by passing over the whole business to the House of Representatives, which set its Judiciary Committee to hunting up mares' nests, instead of securing to Mr. Davis the prompt trial by a jury of his peers which is his right, were he thrice guilty of that infamy.

The Committee, finding no evidence which would for a moment stand the daylight of a court of law, now make a report, at the tail end of a session, boldly charging Mr. Davis with the crime of treason, and insinuating his guilt of complicity in the assassination, or rather insinuating their hope and expectation of finding evidence of that complicity in the vast mass of "rebel archives, only a portion of which has yet been examined."

The Judiciary Committee is fast constituting itself for a fit companionship with the Secretary, who ordered Mr. Davis to be shackled and deprived of sleep. It looks now as if they might reasonably hope to wear his life out in prison before being compelled to retract the charges, a responsibility for which they share, or to resort to the assistance of Judge Underwood, who, when the Reconstruction Committee asked him if he could pack a jury in Virginia to convict Mr. Davis, replied that "it would be very difficult, but it could be done." I could pack a jury "to convict him."—New York World.

Radical Meeting in New Orleans---Three Negroes Killed.

NEW ORLEANS, July 28.—The Radicals held a meeting last night, composed principally of negroes, who went howling through the streets, threatening violence. The leading Radicals used violent language. Three negroes were killed.

General Francis P. Blair, Jr., has brought a suit for damages against the Missouri Democrat, a Republican paper published at St. Louis, for charging that he appropriated china and silver ware to his own use whilst with the Federal army in South Carolina. He has also instituted suit against James Lindsey, of Iron county, Missouri, for publishing a letter charging him with cotton stealing whilst in the army. One hundred thousand dollars damages are claimed in each case.

The National Intelligencer says some of the Congressional Revolutionists are becoming dissatisfied with the scheme for a Convention of Radicals, purporting to come from the Southern States, and propose a representation from the Northern States, also, in that Convention.

Governor Fletcher, of Missouri, urgently recommends the appointment of thoroughly radical delegates from that State to attend the Radical Underwood-Hamilton Convention, which is called to meet at Philadelphia in September next.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

HILLSBOROUGH MILITARY ACADEMY.

The exercises of this well known institution, founded by the late Col. C. C. Tew, will be resumed on the 1st. day of October next, under the direction of Gen. R. E. COLSTON, a graduate, and for fifteen years, (up to the commencement of the war) a Professor of the Va. Military Institute.

The course of instruction will be such as to make the Academy a great

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—It will be seen that Gen. R. E. Colston, late Major General in the Army of Northern Virginia, and, as such, generally and most favorably known, has taken charge of the Hillsboro' Military Academy.—We invite special attention to his announcement in another column. Gen. Colston is a gentleman of the finest attainments and enjoys an exalted reputation in Virginia, of which State he has been an adopted citizen. We welcome him to North Carolina, and commend his enterprise most cordially to our people,—promising, as it does, a public benefit, not only to the State, but the whole South. We shall notice his plans more at length, when we shall have seen them more in detail.

See new announcement of Watson, the successful Photographist.

Jos. H. Baker and others, Commissioners, Tarboro, N. C., offer $50 for the best plan and specifications (if adopted) for a jail in that town.

ERRORS CORRECTED.—We are obliged to our friends for having called our attention to omissions on our mail books. Our clerk has recently transferred our subscribers' names to a new book, and we find, in several instances, that the names of some few of our most prompt subscribers have been omitted. The corrections have been made, with due allowance to them for the omission. We shall be obliged to all, who will readily point out omissions or errors in our business department.

More than this. We detest error or falsehood of any kind, and if any one, friend or foe, discover at any time in the Sentinel an error or untrue statement, which they know to be erroneous, we shall take it kindly in them to suggest it to us, that we may correct it. Our object is truth and right—the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

MR. WHEAT'S CONCERT.—We hold it to be a duty to encourage native genius in whatever department developed. Perhaps no order of genius or talent, on account of its refining and humanizing influences, more deserves patronage than the musical. Indeed it is a pity that, in this country, the science of music does not, as is the case in Europe, form a regular part of our system of education.

We hope that our citizens will show their appreciation of a North Carolina artiste, by giving Mr. Wheat a crowded benefit to-night. We have often spoken already, in terms of high eulogy, of his splendid performance, and all who have had the pleasure of hearing him will endorse our opinion. But let no one take our word for it. Let all go and hear for themselves.

Mr. Wheat will be assisted by the same delightful amateur talent that made last Friday evening's entertainment pass off so charmingly.

Half the proceeds of the Concert will be appropriated to the Ladies' Memorial Association.

BURGLARY.—The barber shop of Lazzaro, on Fayetteville street, was entered last night, and two or three watches, belonging to the proprietor, and nearly his entire stock of tonsorial implements, soaps, perfumery &c., abstracted.—Entrance was effected by breaking open the shutter, and hoisting the window. Suspicion is entertained as to the guilty party.

CITY MARKET.—We have never seen this market so bountifully and cheaply supplied with melons of the largest kind, as at this season.—In the absence of cholera symptoms, our people fare sumptuously and with impunity. The supply of vegetables, generally, is also large. It is equally so with fowls. Our butchers also deserve credit for the general good quality and quantity of beef and mutton they keep on hand.

There is some talk of removing the market. We doubt the policy at present. The large number of carts and wagons now visiting the market, we think, is temporary, and must fall off when farmers find other and better sources of living. Besides, until the necessity become imperious, a removal would not be just or generous to those citizens who have purchased property and put up stores contiguous to it, because of the locality of the market.

THE NEW SCHEDULE.—The Raleigh and Gaston and the North Carolina Railroads have been remarkably successful in running the new schedule on quick time, since its adoption. It is not equal to the speed of the Northern trains, and it is suggested that there is a talk of increasing the speed, but we are of opinion it is quick enough for safety. This route, now, is certainly the most desirable one going North. It is as expeditious as any, and the pleasure of spending a night on Chesapeake bay, in this season, is worth more than any advantage gained in distance.

D. K. MCRAE, ESQ.—The friends of this gentleman were pleased to see his name, on yesterday, in the list of published pardons. We are glad to learn that he is practicing his profession in Memphis, Tenn., with success.

The occasional pardon of one specially regarded as an ultra-Southern man, we observe, excites surprise among moderate men, while gentlemen known to have been more conservative remain unpardoned. We can only account for it upon the supposition, that the friends of men, supposed to be more especially the object of hate than others, are more zealous and constant in their efforts to secure their pardon.

HON. R. S. DONNELL.—The many friends of this gentleman, who were aware of his recent extreme prostration by the disease from which he has long suffered, will be gratified to learn that his visit to the Healing Springs, in Virginia, has proved signally successful, so far, in effecting his relief and recuperation.

JONES' SPRINGS,—INTERESTING OCCASION.—We learn that Gen. Robert E. Lee, and family, Gov. Worth, and other distinguished gentlemen, will be at Jones' Springs, in Warren, on the 8th. of August, on the occasion of the erection of a monument over Gen. Lee's daughter, who died there during the war. The exercises of the occasion, together with the presence of the great Chieftain, will doubtless attract an immense crowd.

A GREAT ENTERPRISE.—We learn that the entire amount of stock necessary to build a Railroad from Charlotte to Atlanta, Georgia, direct, has been subscribed, and that the road will be at once commenced. This is most gratifying intelligence. Let the South have but a fair chance, and it will speedily recuperate from the disasters of the war. We hope soon to have further particulars of this great enterprise.

GALLANT ACT.—Mr. Geo. Attmore, of Newbern, a few days since, rescued a little unknown negro boy from drowning in the river at that place. When Mr. A. arrived at the scene, the boy had finally disappeared, but as he had only just disappeared, thought it probable he might be yet saved. He jumped in and dived to the bottom and found the boy lying on his back in the mud. He deliberately turned him over and, seizing him by the seat of his breeches, came to the surface with him, and landed him, and by his individual exertions then resuscitated him and sent him on his way rejoicing. The Bureau was thus saved a knob, says the Commercial.

Collecting War Taxes in the South—Is it Allowable!

The Tallahasse Floridan advises concert of action for the purpose of testing in the United States Courts, the legitimacy of the Federal taxes levied during the war, and now being collected from the Southern States. It denies the rightfulness of such collections, and rests upon the case of The United States vs. Rice, reported in 4th Wheaton. Daniel Webster was defendant's counsel, and Judge Story delivered the unanimous opinion of the Court.

The Floridan states the facts as follows. Their application to the case of the Southern tax-payer within the Confederate lines during the war, is palpable:

In 1814, the United States and Great Britain being at war, the British authorities took possession of the port of Castine in the State of Maine, and held it until the termination of hostilities, when possession of it was resumed by the United States. While thus held and governed by authority and power hostile to the United States, goods subject to the payment of revenue taxes under our laws were introduced into said port. They were found there when the United States reoccupied it; and our revenue laws were attempted to be enforced against them by seizure. A bond for the duties was given by the owner, and it was upon a suit by the Government to collect the bond that the case was made, upon which the decision of the Supreme Court was given. It was contended for the United States that its laws were promptly in force there, although the place was at the time held by the British forces in hostility to the United States, and the laws, therefore, of the latter could not, at the time, be enforced there; just as the tax collector now claims that the laws of the United States were in 1862 properly in force in Florida, though the latter being held by a hostile power, said laws could not then be enforced here. See how Judge Story, speaking not alone for himself, but for Judge Marshall and all the other members of that illustrious bench, disposes of this sophistry:

"We are all of the opinion that the claim for duties cannot be sustained. By the conquest and military occupation of Castine, the enemy acquired that firm possession which enabled him to exercise the fullest rights of sovereignty over that place. The sovereignty of the United States over the territory was suspended, and the laws of the United States could no longer be rightfully enforced there, or be obligatory upon the inhabitants who remained and submitted to the conquerors. By the surrender the inhabitants passed under a temporary allegiance of the British government, and were bound by such laws, and such only, as it chose to recognize and impose. From the nature of the case no other laws could be obligatory upon them, for where there is no protection or allegiance or sovereignty, there can be no claim to obedience. Castine was, therefore, during this period, as far as respected our revenue laws, to be deemed a foreign port, and goods imported into it by the inhabitants were subjected to such duties only as the British Government chose to require. Such goods were in no correct sense imported into the United States. The subsequent evacuation by the enemy, and the resumption of authority by the United States, did not and could not, change the character of the previous transaction."

The Court, in conclusion, intimate that the case is too clear to admit of argument—remarking very expressively, "the authorities cited at bar would, if there were any doubt, be decisive of the question. But we think it is too clear to require any aid from authority."

WASHINGTON COLLEGE.—The trustees at their session, last week, elected to the chair of Moral Philosophy, John L. Kirkpatrick, D. D., now President of Davidson College, N. C.

Dr. Kirkpatrick is a highly accomplished gentleman, distinguished not only as a teacher, but also as a pulpit orator, while resident in Charleston, S. C. His reputation and influence is extended in all the Southern States. He is a native of Virginia.

It was determined to build a handsome residence for the President, General Lee, and also an appropriate chapel for the college.

The faculty are henceforth to select annually a chaplain, from among the various denominations in turn.

The contributions to the "Lee Endowment" fund are increasing constantly, the entire endowment at present reaching nearly two hundred thousand dollars.

The applications for students for the next session are now near four hundred. Additional buildings are to be erected this summer and fall. —Staunton Spectator.

A PROPHECY.—Daniel Webster, in a public speech delivered at Faneuil Hall, on the 7th of March 1850, made use of the following words:

If the infernal fanatics and abolitionists ever get power in their hands, they will override the Constitution, set the Supreme Court at defiance, make laws to suit themselves, lay violent hands on those who differ with them in their opinions, or dare question their infallibility, and finally bankrupt the country and deluge it in blood.

Mr. Jackson, representative in the State Legislature for Jackson County, Tennessee, has brought a suit for one hundred thousand dollars against the radical members of the House for false imprisonment. Mr. Jackson is one of the victims of Brownlow's last outrage.

Internal Revenue Restrictions Removed.

WASHINGTON, July 31.

The restrictive regulations adopted by the Internal Revenue office, Oct. 9, '65, for removal under bond, without pre-payment of taxes, of taxable products within the limits of the late insurgent States, have been rescinded by the Secretary of the Treasury. So that manufacturers and producers of those States will be allowed to ship their goods under bond, without pre-payment of taxes.

Dispatches by the Cable.

ASPINWALL BAY, July 30, Midnight.

By arrival of a vessel from Port au Basque, to night, further dispatches through from Europe are received.

Several messages from England to private parties are among those brought from Heart's Content. Arrangements have been made which will insure a rapid and frequent transmission of despatches, henceforth, until the gulf cable is laid.

Herald and Tribune European Dispatches.

NEW YORK, July 31, M.

The Herald has the following over the cable:

"LONDON, July 28.—Armistice of four weeks from yesterday been signed by Prussia, Austria, Bavaria, and other German States. The propositions embrace lasting peace over whole Continent of Europe."

A Tribune special (same date) says that in the British House, Lord Stanly said the Cabinet were anxious to remove any irritation growing out of cases connected with the war between the Northern and Southern States of America.

No Family at the South Should be Without Them.

The late Col John Wright, of Goldsboro', N. C., Aug. 14, 1862, says: "I have used the SOUTHERN HEPATIC PILLS in my family here, and also on my plantation in Alabama, and always with success. I have a valuable servant girl who had been a long time under treatment for consumption without receiving any benefit. Almost in her extremity I was induced to try the Hepatic Pills. They were given according to directions, and she is now well, entirely restored by them. A similar case occurred among my servants in Alabama. For liver and lung diseases I have perfect confidence in them.

A NEW AND GRAND EPOCH IN MEDICINE!

DR. MAGGIEL is the founder of a new Medical System! The quantitarians, whose vast internal doses enfeeble the stomach and paralyze the bowels, must give precedence to the man who restores health and appetite, with from one to two of his extraordinary Pills, and cures the most virulent sores with a box or so of his wonderful and all healing Salve. These two great specifics of the Doctor are fast superseding all the stereotyped nostrums of the day. Extraordinary cures by Maggiel's Pills and Salve have opened the eyes of the public to the inefficiency of the (so called) remedies of others, and upon which people have so long blindly depended. Maggiel's Pills are not of the class that are swallowed by the dozen, and of which every box full taken creates an absolute necessity for another. One or two of Maggiel's Pills suffices to place the bowels in perfect order, tone the stomach, create an appetite, and render the spirits light and buoyant! There is no griping, and no reaction in the form of constipation. If the liver is affected, its functions are restored; and if the nervous system is feeble it is invigorated. This last quality makes the medicines very desirable for the wants of delicate females. Ulcerous and eruptive diseases are literally extinguished by the disenfectant power of Maggiel's Salve. In fact, it is here announced that Maggiel's Bilious, Dyspeptic and Diarrhea Pills cure where all others fail. While for Burns, Scalds, Chilblains, Cuts and all abrasions of the skin Maggiel's Salve is infallible. Sold by J. MAGGIEL, 43 Fulton Street, New York, and all Druggists, at 25 cts. per box. Sold by all Druggists in Raleigh.

A BOON TO THE SICK.
AND
THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD.

DR. MAGGIEL'S PILLS AND SALVE.

These Life-giving remedies are now given publicly to the world. For over a quarter of a century of private practice the ingredients in these

LIFE-GIVING PILLS!

Have been used with the greatest success. Their mission is not only to prevent disease, but to cure. They search out the various maladies by which the patient is suffering and re-invigorate the failing system. To the aged and infirm a few doses of these valuable PILLS will prove to be

A VERY FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH,

For in every case they add new life and vitality, and restore the waning energies to their pristine state.—To the young and middle-aged, they will prove most invaluable, as a ready, specific, and sterling medicine. Here is a dream realized, that Ponce-de Leon sought for three hundred years ago, and never found. He looked for a fountain that would restore the old to vigor and make youth ever

An Eternal Spring!

It was left for this day and hour to realize the dream, and show in one glorious fact, that magic that made it fair.

THESE FAMOUS REMEDIES

Cannot stay the flight of years, but they can force back and hold aloof, diseases that might triumph over the aged and the young. Let none hesitate then, but seize the favorable opportunity the offers. When taken as prescribed—

FOR BILLIOUS DISORDERS

Nothing can be more productive of cure than these Pills. Their almost magic influence is felt at once; and the usual concomitants of this most distressing disease are removed. These remedies are made from the purest

VEGETABLE COMPOUNDS.

They will not harm the most delicate female, and can be given with good effect in prescribed dose to the youngest babe.

FOR CUTANEOUS DISORDERS

And all eruptions of the skin, the SALVE is most invaluable. It does not heal externally alone, but penetrates with the most searching effects to the very root of the evil!

DR. MAGGIEL'S PILLS.

Invariably cure the following Diseases.

Asthma,
Bowel Complaints,
Coughs,
Colds,
Chest Diseases,

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

IS a concentrated extract of the choice root, so combined with other substances of still greater alterative power as to afford an effectual antidote for diseases Sarsaparilla is reputed to cure. Such a remedy is surely wanted by those who suffer from Strumous complaints, and that one which will accomplish their cure must prove, as this has, of immense service to this large class of our afflicted fellow-citizens. How completely this compound will do it has been proven by experiment on many of the worst cases to be found in the following complaints:

Scrotula, Scrofulous Swellings and Sores, Skin Diseases, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Eruptions, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter or Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, &c.

Syphilis or Venereal Disease is expelled from the system by the prolonged use of this Sarsaparilla, and the patient is left in comparative health.

Female Diseases are caused by Scrofula in the blood and are often soon cured by this Extract of Sarsaparilla.

Do not discard this invaluable medicine, because you have been imposed upon by something pretending to be Sarsaparilla, while it was not. When you have used Ayer's—then, and not till then, will you know the virtues of Sarsaparilla. For minute particulars of the diseases it cures, we refer you to Ayer's American Almanac, which the agents below named will furnish gratis to all who call for it.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS, for the cure of Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Heartburn arising from Disordered Stomach, Pain or Morbid Inaction of the Bowels, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, and for a Dinner Pill.

They are sugar coated, so that the most sensitive can take them pleasantly, and they are the best Aperient in the world for all the purposes of a family physic.

Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER & Co., Lowell, Mass., and sold by Williams & Haywood, P. F. Pescud, Raleigh, N. C., and Dealers generally.

BARBER'S NOTICE.

I embrace this method of informing my old patrons and friends, that I have recovered from my recent illness, and am again at my post. I would most respectfully tender my thanks for the very liberal patronage which I have received in the past. I hope, by strict attention to the wishes of my patrons, and the public generally, to merit a continuance of the same.

My towels are new and very clean,
My hands are light, my razors keen,
In latest style, hair cutting I do,
And every thing shall, sure, suit you.

SOUTHERN FERTILIZING COMPANY,

Richmond Va,

Colonel William Gilham,
(late Professor of Chemistry at the Virginia Military Institute,)

CHEMIST AND SUPERINTENDENT.

This COMPANY having placed in their works the most modern and approved MACHINERY, will be prepared on the FIRST OF AUGUST to furnish FERTILIZERS on an extensive scale, compounded under the immediate supervision of the eminent chemist named above.

They propose to offer for sale:

PURE PERUVIAN GUANO,

(warranted free from admixture,) ground and pulverized; thus avoiding for the farmer the necessity of breaking up the lumps, and not only saving him from loss by waste, but securing him uniformity and regularity in its application.

MANIPULATED GUANO

composed of pure Peruvian and Phosphatic Guano in equal proportions, finely ground and thoroughly incorporated.

OLD DOMINION GUANO,

composed of Peruvian and Phosphatic Guano, in combination with other ingredients, and containing four per cent. of ammonia.

PLASTER,

finely ground from the best Nova Scotia lump. None will be used not strictly adapted to agricultural purposes.

BONE DUST.

A large quantity of bones having been purchased, a constant supply of pure Bone Dust will be kept on hand.

This company commends itself to the patronage of the Southern agricultural community as a HOME INSTITUTION, under the management of one practically acquainted with Southern lands, and thoroughly competent to decide upon the best agents for their permanent improvement. Under his control the public have assurance that nothing will be offered them that is not of real and intrinsic value.

The undersigned, composing the above company, offer their personal guarantee, in connection with Colonel Gilham, that their Fertilizers shall be as represented.

Liberal arrangements will be made with commission merchants and grocers, who are invited to confer with the President (post office box 974.)

VALUABLE FLORIDA FARM FOR SALE.

I offer my tract of land for sale, lying in Columbia County, four miles west of Lake City, Fla., containing Twelve Hundred Acres.

Three hundred of which is cleared and in fine condition for cultivation. A good portion of the tract, both cleared and uncleared, is fine hammock land, rendering it quite a valuable tract. Besides, it has on it a two story framed dwelling, with nine rooms and a piazza sixty feet long, double kitchen, smoke house, negro cabins, corn cribs, stables, carriage house, several large granaries, wagon sheds, three wells of water, [one of them the best water in all that section of country,] sixty orange trees in the yard, and an orchard of two hundred peach trees.

The location is a pleasant one and as healthy as any part of any other State. All the advantages of this farm combined renders it one of the few really valuable and desirable homes offered for sale.

THE EMPIRE SHINGLE MACHINE.

IS acknowledged to be, by all odds, the best Shingle Machine in America. With only ONE HORSE POWER

3000 Elegant Shingles

per hour are easily made. The machine is built entirely of Iron, very compact and easily transported. It works VENEERS, STAVES and BOX STUFF, and out of the same number of bolts of timber, one third more Shingles are made than can be done by the Sawing Machines. All the saw dust is saved by the Empire and goes into the Shingles.
